ABOUT SCHOLARLY SOJOURNS

Not only our name, but also what we call our flagship tours, Scholarly Sojourns are intellectually-stimulating travel programs that explore fascinating topics in history, literature, archaeology, art history, and science. Designed and guided by distinguished scholars, these engaging journeys provide the unique opportunity to explore a subject on location.

Roche Rock in Cornwall—the fabled hideaway of Tristan and Isolde

Uncovering Camelot

A JOURNEY THROUGH ARTHURIAN BRITAIN

From very early, somewhat-historical works to Thomas Malory's classic Morte d'Arthur, and from Tennyson's celebrated Idylls of the King to T.H. White's masterpiece The Once and Future King, tales of Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table have for centuries captivated the imagination of readers with gripping tales of chivalry, valor, and romance. But the truly remarkable number of references in these works to actual sites and locations in Britain have led many curious historians and archaeologists to investigate the actual distance between fact and fiction.

This imaginative sojourn transports us in place and time through beautiful Southwestern Britain to visit some of the most notable sites of Arthurian lore and to examine both their historical and literary connections. The settings for the tales are in one sense mythical, but we discover they also contain deep roots in the medieval English countryside—a varied and evocative terrain that most certainly informed the psyche of countless writers of Arthurian tales.

“Quest” is a theme at the very heart of all Arthurian romance, whether its object is honor, glory, love, or the Holy Grail. As we travel, our quest will be to recover some of the mystery and excitement from both the land and literature by investigating the real historical and archaeological evidence behind these legends.

In Morte d'Arthur, Malory reminds readers: “Yet some men say in many parts of England that King Arthur is not dead . . . many men say that there is written upon his tomb this verse: Hic jacet Arthurus, Rex quondam, Rexque futurus (Here lies Arthur, the once and future King).” Arthur may sleep still, but on this unique sojourn we will invoke his spirit and explore a variety of Arthurian texts as we travel through the landscapes that inspired them. Together we will ponder questions that have enthralled readers for ages. Could there have actually been a King Arthur? Was there an Excalibur? A Round Table? Did Camelot exist? Join us on this fascinating journey and you may find yourself closer to answering these questions than you ever imagined.

Day-to-Day Tour Summary

DAY 1 - ARRIVE IN SOUTH WALES

Arriving in beautiful South Wales this morning, you transfer to the Craig-y-Nos Castle Hotel in scenic Brecon Beacons National Park. You are greeted by your Scholarly Sojourns Tour Director who assists you with checking in, and then you are free to relax or explore until our departure for Carreg Cennen Castle this afternoon. There you enjoy a private, guided tour by a local historian followed by some time to explore on your own. This evening you join fellow sojourn members and your leader, Professor Dorsey Armstrong, for the opening reception and keynote address followed by our welcome dinner. An informal pub gathering is held afterward for those who wish to enjoy conversation and a nightcap. [R | D]

DAY 2 - CARMARTHEN AND PEMBROKESHIRE COAST

We travel west this morning through Carmarthenshire to the picturesque town of Carmarthen—legendary birthplace of the wizard Merlin. Here we explore a number of sites associated with the magical character, including Merlin's Tree, Merlin's Hill, and Merlin's Stone, before enjoying some free time to explore the town. Continuing west, we travel to the Preseli Mountains. Legend tells us Merlin flew the stones for Stonehenge from these mysterious mountains. We drive through scenic Pembrokeshire Coast National Park to explore some noted landmarks with Arthurian connections before arriving at Lake Bosherton—one of the possible resting places for Excalibur. Nearby, we also visit stunning St. Govan's Head, where Sir Gawain is said to have settled as a hermit following the death of Arthur and later was buried after his own death. Upon our return to Pen-y-Cae, the evening is free to spend as you please. A shuttle to the seaside town of Swansea is available for those who desire a night out. [B]

DAY 3 - CAERLEON TO USK

We depart Brecon Beacons and the Craig-y-Nos Castle Hotel today and head east. Our first stop is Caerleon—site of a Roman fortress as well as a location redolent with Arthurian connections. According to Geoffrey of Monmouth this was the site of Arthur's court. Following an expertly-guided tour of the impressive site, which once housed 6,000 Roman soldiers and includes the best-preserved Roman amphitheater in Britain and the finest remains of Roman barrack buildings in Europe, we pay a brief visit to the celebrated Hanbury Arms—the hostelry where Tennyson

Day-to-Day Tour Summary

lodged while writing Idylls of the King in 1856. Following lunch we continue on to visit two other contenders for the location of Camelot—Llanmelin, an iron-age hill fort, and the former Roman town of Caerwent, which still retains impressive sections of its original walls. This afternoon we drive through the picturesque Wye River Valley—and past famed Tintern Abbey—to a remote site near the town of Monmouth. Here we explore Arthur's Cave—perched high upon a bluff above the river—which some archaeologists believe was inhabited as far back as the Stone Age. This evening we arrive in the charming town of Usk where we settle into our atmospheric hotel and enjoy some free time before gathering at our own round table for an engaging seminar dinner. [B|D]

DAY 4 - USK TO TINTAGEL

We depart Usk this morning and cross the famed Severn Bridge into England before heading southwest toward Cornwall. As we travel, the landscape begins to change and we see the iconic, sleepy ports and atmospheric coves for which this area of Britain is renowned. Our first stop is Bodmin Moor—an area filled with sites associated with Arthur. We visit Arthur's Bed, Arthur's Hall, and finally Dozmary Pool—another possible resting place for Excalibur. Following lunch, we travel to Slaughterbridge near the town of Camelford, argued by some historians to be a possible location of Camelot. Here we view a sixth-century stone inscribed to mark the spot where King Arthur was mortally wounded by Mordred in an epic battle that marked the end of the fellowship of the Knights of the Round Table. A short ride takes us to Tintagel Castle, an archaeological site infused with legend and mystery, most significantly the reputed birthplace of King Arthur. We spend the remainder of the afternoon exploring this fascinating site and then find our hotel for the next two nights—the Camelot Castle Hotel—just a short walk away in the charming village of Tintagel. Following check-in, the remainder of the evening is yours to spend as you see fit. [B]

DAY 5 - LAND'S END, ST. MICHAEL'S MOUNT AND ROCHE ROCK

We depart early this morning and travel to the very tip of Great Britain—to Land's End—mainland England's most westerly point. Here we look over the sea toward the Isles of Scilly. Some historians believe these to be the Isle of Avalon where Arthur was brought to be buried. Continuing along the Cornish Coast, we see the

Day-to-Day Tour Summary

Minack Theatre, an open-air arena carved into a cliffside and overlooking the spectacular panorama of Porthcurno Bay. From there we travel to the famed harbor town of Penzance for lunch and some free time to explore the shops and galleries that line its narrow streets. This afternoon we cross by boat to visit iconic St. Michael's Mount, where legends tell of an epic battle between King Arthur and a mythical giant named Cormoran who supposedly lived on the mount. Our final stop is haunting Roche Rock—a unique outcrop of rock with a tiny chapel perched atop—said to be the hiding place of the lovers Tristan and Isolde. Upon our return to Tintagel this evening, we gather for dinner and discussion in a most fitting setting at the Camelot Castle Hotel. [B | D]

DAY 6 - SOMERSET TO WELLS

We travel east to Somerset this morning to visit the enormous, ancient hill fort known as Cadbury Castle. For centuries this prominent outcrop has been linked to King Arthur and widely regarded as one of the main contenders for the location of Camelot. Archaeological excavations have uncovered clear evidence of occupation during the Iron Age, and some locals believe that King Arthur still lies sleeping in a cave within the hill. We enjoy a Scholarly Sojourns signature picnic at the foot of this remarkable site before continuing to majestic Bath, a city so historically significant that it has been designated a UNESCO World Heritage Site. Here we consider how many historians, including Geoffrey of Monmouth, claim Bath to be the site of Arthur's last great battle, known as the Battle of Badon Hill, and then enjoy a generous period of free time to explore the city on our own. This afternoon we take a scenic drive through the breathtaking Cheddar Gorge—an amazing natural phenomenon that is Britain's largest gorge—which rewards us with stunning views. A short drive from here we find our resting place for the next two nights in Wells, England's smallest city and home to a celebrated 8th-century cathedral that is widely regarded as one of the most unusual and beautiful cathedrals in Britain. After checking into our historic hotel, the evening is free to explore the city's atmospheric, medieval streets and perhaps enjoy one (or more) of its traditional pubs. [B | L]

DAY 7 - OLD SARUM TO STONEHENGE

Following breakfast and our briefing this morning, we depart to encounter three of the most significant prehistoric sites in Britain. Our first stop is Old Sarum—a fascinating Iron Age hilltop settlement that some argue may have been the location of Camelot. Afterward, we travel to one of the best known prehistoric sites in Britain and the largest stone circle in Europe at Avebury—a Neolithic henge monument containing three stone circles surrounding the village of the same name. It has been argued that this site was built to commemorate the final battle of King Arthur, and that Arthur's slain warriors lie buried here. Our final stop is Stonehenge—the most-visited and most impressive prehistoric site in Britain and the best-known prehistoric monument in Europe. Although the site has no clear origin, it has been written that Merlin was responsible for its construction as a memorial on the site of a 5th-century massacre. After returning to Wells, our day concludes with a pleasant reception held in the shadow of its beautiful cathedral followed by a special farewell dinner this evening. [B | R | D]

DAY 8 - TOUR ENDS IN GLASTONBURY

Following breakfast we travel to nearby Glastonbury to enjoy a guided walking tour which leads us to sites such as Chalice Well, the purported resting place of the Holy Grail. Those who wish can climb Glastonbury Tor—an ancient hill set in the middle of the remarkable Summerland Meadows plain which offers panoramic views of the surrounding countryside. We conclude with a visit to Glastonbury Abbey, home to the purported tomb of King Arthur and Queen Guinevere, which was discovered in 1191. It is fitting, perhaps, that our tour draws to a close here as we say our good-byes, not only to each other, but also to the “Once and Future King” whose rich legacy brought us together for this amazing journey. Visiting the Chalice Well

One of Britain's most ancient wells, Chalice Well is nestled in the Vale of Avalon between the famous Glastonbury Tor and Chalice Hill. For over two thousand years it has been a place where people have gathered to drink the waters and find solace, peace and inspiration. Many legends are attributed to its waters which flow ceaselessly at a steady rate and temperature that never varies. Not the least among these legends is that Joseph of Arimathea came to Britain bearing the cup used by Jesus Christ at the Last Supper, and then, later, by Joseph himself to collect the blood of Christ at his crucifixion. Joseph buried the cup that would come to be known as the Holy Grail just below Glastonbury Tor near the entrance to the Underworld, and shortly thereafter the spring now known as Chalice Well miraculously flowed from the ground and the water that emerged brought eternal youth to whosoever would drink it. Intertwining the myths and legends of Glastonbury history, it is widely believed that finding the Holy Grail was the purpose behind the quests of King Arthur and the Knights of the Round Table.

Lodging

Craig y Nos Castle Hotel — Pen-y-Cae, Wales

With a stunning location and the carefully preserved ambience of a Welsh castle, Craig y Nos Castle is adorned with unique architectural details and provides magnificent views over the Brecon Beacons National Park. Set amidst great natural beauty with running streams, lakes and woods nearby, the hotel tempts guests who have been on the go during the day to relax by a log fire each evening.

Camelot Castle Hotel — Tintagel, Cornwall

Sitting proudly overlooking the Atlantic Ocean and the ruins of Tintagel Castle, the legendary birthplace of King Arthur, the stunning Camelot Castle Hotel offers rooms with magnificent panoramic views over the rugged Cornish coastline. With its unsurpassed scenery, natural beauty, peace and tranquility, it is arguably one of the most inspiring hotels in Britain.

The Swan Hotel — Wells, Somerset

Located in the center of England's smallest city and overlooking what many call England's most beautiful cathedral, the Swan is steeped in history and offers guests the opportunity to experience the elegance of a bygone era. Parts of the hotel date to at least 1422 and over the centuries the hotel has played host to many famous people, including hosting a feast in honor of Anne of Denmark.
